- Mission & Vision

Mission

The mission of the Department of English Language and Literature is to achieve high academic success and, with a modern understanding of education, to raise individuals who are well-versed in English Language and Literature and Western Culture.

Vision

The vision of the Department of English Language and Literature is to be an internationally active, well-equipped department that influences the future.

The Importance of English Language and Literature Departments

The Department of English Language and Literature offers an interdisciplinary education. It aims to provide the students with,

(1) Proficiency in written and spoken English at a professional level through skill courses;

(2) Ability to think comparatively and critically by providing the opportunity to study English literature, history and culture in depth with literature courses;

(3) The ability to gain awareness of both their own culture and the target culture and to make cultural comparisons through English cultural studies courses.

In the most general sense, this department educates graduates who have a high level of knowledge about both their society and another society, who can think creatively, freely and critically, and who have foreign language skills and intellectual equipment to fulfil the requirements of the globalizing world by looking at the literature and culture of another society.

The biggest advantage of the programme is that it takes into account the scientific and methodological innovations in the field of English Language and Literature in the world and offers an up-to-date curriculum that is suitable to be updated when necessary. As a result of progressive educational activities to be carried out through the effective use of written, visual and audio sources, graduates will be able to exhibit outstanding performance in various fields and can easily find jobs in the future.

Why English Language and Literature Department?

Students who study at the Department of English Language and Literature will have advanced written and spoken English proficiency through an interdisciplinary curriculum. They will develop comparative and critical thinking skills through an in-depth study of the literature, history and culture of another country. Thanks to the wide range of job opportunities offered to the graduates of the department, they will have the opportunity to shape their future.

The undergraduate program of the Department of English Language and Literature aims to help students develop critical thinking skills and become a self-critic. Thus, if the graduates of the Department pursue further education, they will contribute to the production of academic knowledge.

Job Opportunities for Our Graduates

Graduates will have the opportunity to work as,

- lecturers at universities

- guides, translators, staff in the tourism sector which has a high potential and needs qualified workforce in our country

- experts or translators in the promotion, foreign relations and European Union departments of the ministries

- specialists at banks

- editors, translators or screenwriters for public and private media organisations

- teachers at public or private schools

- and qualified personnel in various sectors (such as import, export, human resources, customer relations, foreign education consultancy) that require foreign language skills.
